From Inspirations to Solutions

I'm often asked where the inspiration for our jewelry designs comes from. There are many sources; current fashion, vintage designs, but most importantly - from our clients.

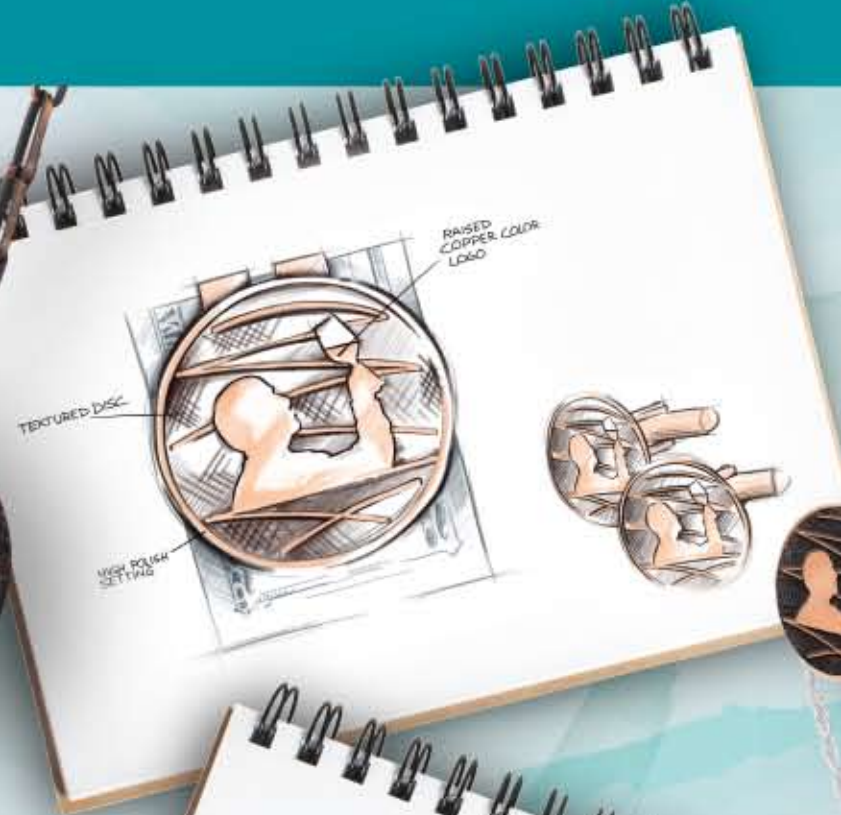

Our clients are not jewelers, but they do know best what designs and products will be appreciated by their groups; whether employees, associates, volunteers, or teammates. Often, we are sent a piece, or a treatment that our client asks to be used as the foundation of a design. We respond with concepts that incorporate the desired elements, and of course meet the budget, like the examples you see on this page.

Good direction, strong client collaboration, and flawless execution have blessed us with over 40 years of success.

It is this creative process that has helped us to develop the "Ovations" collections you will see on the pages that follow. We hope that they serve your needs, as is, or as inspiration for a design of your own.
